Task 8. Writing (max – 20)

"The best teachers are those who show you where to look but don't tell you what to see."

Alexandra K. Trenfor

8 In this statement, as I understand it, Alexandra 90 was expressing that she thought that the best quality 40 of a teacher is their ability to educate students on 4 how to learn things.

40 I agree with her opinion. It is the ability and 73 the will to learn ^{new} things that get a person through life, not 10 just the knowledge that was almost forced into them 71 before. If a person does not learn, they do not adapt 40 to life, which is always changing and which will not 90\ 4 forgive a stagnant mind

71 All the greatest minds in history had an affinity from 8 learning, otherwise they wouldn't become what they were.
90 Take Peter the 1st, for example. The European ways of 9 life ^{and} sciences weren't something that was taught to 11 him forcefully. He had a gifted mind, a will to learn 90 and when he became the ruler he found the teachers who would teach him how to find answers, how to learn and adapt to life. ^A And so with his mind he adapted the country ^{teaching} ~~he taught~~ an Empire that would then ^{teach} ~~first~~ countless minds that ^{now} ~~would~~ learn and discover ~~new~~ for it.

1004

To conclude it, a teacher that is able to make their students to learn ^{by themselves} is much more valuable than a teacher who simply forces the students to learn the knowledge given. History shows, that minds open to new are greater than those that aren't, so to teach to learn is the best thing a tutor could do.

for the new government to make children, as the future of the country, think in the way it was appropriate for this government. That's why history teachers were lying about some historical facts and were showing the former government authorities as a bloody establishment that hadn't paid any attention to people's needs. Because of this many children were given with wrong information and any other point of view was forbidden.

Personally, my first school teacher was a very kind woman, who showed me different aspects of the world, explaining pros and cons of different actions, but she never told me how to act and what to think, that's why I consider her as the best teacher in my life.

In the end, I'd like to say that the role of a teacher in the child's life is really important, consequently, teacher is the person that should show where to look but never tell what to see.
